A 7.2-magnitude earthquake hit the Philippines on Tuesday, killing at least 10 people and injuring more than 100. The quake, which struck near the town of Marikina, was the strongest to hit the country since 1990. It was felt across the country, and some buildings were damaged. The Philippine government has ordered a state of calamity in the affected areas.

Lacson out of Interpol 'red' notice list

By Kathleen H. Boudreau
 Contributing Writer

INTERPOL has removed James "Sonny" Lacson from its "red" notice list, the highest level of international wanted status, for more than a year.

"I'm relieved the notice has been removed," Lacson said. "I'm not a criminal, and I'm not a fugitive. I'm a businessman."

Lacson, 45, is a Filipino-born American who has lived in the United States for more than 20 years. He is a former member of the United States Marine Corps and has served in Vietnam.

Lacson was arrested in 1987 for the murder of a woman in the Philippines. He was later released on bail and returned to the United States. He was arrested again in 1990 for the same crime and was sentenced to 15 years in prison.

As the National Grid Corporation of the Philippines (NGCP) prepares to close down several power plants, it is important to remember that the company's primary responsibility is to ensure a reliable and affordable supply of electricity to its customers. While the closure of some plants may be necessary for operational reasons, it is not the business of NGCP to engage in speculative trading or to engage in activities that could compromise the security of the grid.

The NGCP is a public utility company, and its primary duty is to provide a reliable and affordable supply of electricity to its customers. This duty is enshrined in the Electric Power Act of 1988, which requires the NGCP to "provide a reliable and affordable supply of electricity to its customers at all times." The NGCP is not a speculative trader, and it should not engage in activities that could compromise the security of the grid.

For gov't and mining firms, Nueva Vizcaya's mineral deposits are so huge that these could not be ignored

Do you still pay P55 for 5 gallons of water?

Nueva Vizcaya faces a mining dilemma

By Helen Garcia

In the heart of Nueva Vizcaya, a province in the northern part of Luzon, there is a vast expanse of land that is rich in mineral resources. The province is known for its abundant supply of copper, gold, and other minerals. However, the mining industry in Nueva Vizcaya is facing a dilemma. On the one hand, the government and mining firms are eager to exploit these resources to generate revenue and create jobs. On the other hand, there are concerns about the environmental impact of mining and the potential for social conflicts.

The mining industry in Nueva Vizcaya has a long history. It was first discovered in the early 20th century, and since then, it has been a major source of income for the province. The government has been actively promoting mining as a key sector for economic development. However, in recent years, there have been growing concerns about the environmental impact of mining. Mining activities can lead to deforestation, soil erosion, and water pollution. These impacts can have a significant negative effect on the local environment and the livelihoods of the people who depend on it.

In addition to the environmental concerns, there are also social issues associated with mining. Mining can lead to the displacement of local communities and the loss of their ancestral lands. It can also create social conflicts between the mining companies and the local people. The government has been trying to address these issues by implementing various measures, such as land reform and community development programs. However, the mining industry still faces a dilemma. It needs to find a way to balance the economic benefits of mining with the environmental and social concerns.

Your multi-franchise program matters

Multi-franchise programs are a great way to grow your business, but they can also be a challenge to manage. It's important to have a clear plan in place for how to manage the program, and to make sure that all franchisees are following the same rules and regulations. This is where a multi-franchise program manager comes in. A multi-franchise program manager is responsible for overseeing the entire program, from recruiting new franchisees to providing ongoing support and training. They also make sure that all franchisees are following the same rules and regulations, and that the program is running smoothly. A multi-franchise program manager is a key player in the success of any multi-franchise program. For more information on multi-franchise programs, visit www.MultiFranchise.com.

Anxiety eats up retired overseas worker

MANILA, Jan. 10 (AP) — A retired overseas worker in Manila is spending much of his savings on medicine and doctor visits, a sign of the health problems that can come with old age and a life of hard work abroad, a local health official said.

The official said that many retired overseas workers are suffering from chronic diseases such as high blood pressure, diabetes and heart disease. He said that these workers often do not have access to proper medical care and that they are often reluctant to seek help because of the cost.

DOF opposes proposed removal of VAT on oil

Agency prefers subsidizing pump prices of petroleum products

By [Name] Manila

MANILA, Jan. 10 (AP) — The Department of Finance (DOF) has opposed a proposal to remove the value-added tax (VAT) on petroleum products, saying it would hurt the government's revenue. Instead, the agency prefers to subsidize pump prices.

The DOF said that removing the VAT on petroleum products would result in a significant loss of revenue for the government. It said that the government would have to find other ways to raise the same amount of money, which could be more costly in the long run.

Gentlemen, where are you?—The ups and downs of elevator etiquette

Introduction

The elevator is a small, enclosed space where people from different backgrounds and cultures interact. It is a place where etiquette is often tested, and where a simple gesture can make a big difference.

Etiquette 101

When entering an elevator, it is important to be aware of the people already inside. If the elevator is full, it is best to wait for the next one. If you are the only person in the elevator, it is important to be polite to yourself.

Common Mistakes

One of the most common mistakes is talking too loudly. The elevator is a small space, and your voice can be heard by everyone inside. Another common mistake is standing too close to the walls or other people.

Conclusion

Elevator etiquette is a simple but important part of being a gentleman. By following a few basic rules, you can make the elevator a more pleasant experience for everyone.
